THE MARKET TREND

investors are beginning to realize that the general trend for interest rates is downward. The supply of available money be comes greater month by month and the demand less. Bank reserves are increasing and loans decreasing. As a result of this, high-grade bonds and preferred stocks are steadily rising in

We believe this trend will continue until gilt-edge securities sell on a 4 per cent basis.

We suggest that you investigate our method of selling bonds on the Partial Payment Plan in order that you may take full ad-vantage of the present exceptional market.

10814 7375 7214 8746 8574 34 10034 9816 CHICAGO, Jan. 20.—Cold weather and lack of snow protection for the winter crop gave new strength to the wheat market today in the early trading. Sentiment continued buillish, influenced by talk of prospective shortage of domestic supplies and by assertions, that Europe must buy large quantities of grain in the world's markets. Dealings here, however, lacked volume as compared with Thursday, Opening quotations, which varied from unchanged figures to $5 chigher with May $1.14% to 1.14% and July $1.02% to 1.02% were followed by slight gains all around.

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 .- Federal reserve banks have abandoned the prace tice of reporting the ratio of gold re-serves to federal notes in circulation after setting aside 35 per cent against deposit liabilities, it was announced at the New York bank Thursday. The reason for the change was said to be the embarrassing volume in which gold is piling up in the federal reserve banks. Total gold reserves fo the system as a whole amounted to $2,398,692,000. In the New York bank the ratio of gold reserves to deposits and liabilities was $7.6 per cent compared to $6.9 a week ago and 38.1 a year ago.

To the People of Ogden

In presenting "Over the Hill" for the consideration of motion picture patrons the world over, I am performing a task which affords me a delight wholly unalloyed.

Will Carleton, upon whose poems this production is based, is known as the "Farm Poet." He sang of the homely things of life-the things with which you and I are intimately familiar. Nor has any poet ever revealed a keener knowledge of the inner workings of the hearts and minds of just Plain Folks.

In "Over the Hill" and its companion poems he touched upon the same subject which caused Absalom to break the heart of his father, David, King of Israel, and which evoked from King Lear his immortal plaint, "How sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to have a thankless child." It is a subject which will wrest songs from the poets of all the generations yet to come.

I have watched the development of "Over the Hill" from the moment the first scene was written. I have watched it throughout the months it has been in course of production. It represents a Labor of Love. In it I take a pride which has never been exceeded-or even equalled-in all the years Fox Film Corporation has been issuing pictures.

"Over the Hill" is a picture that will live as long as the homely virtues continue to exist. It will live as long as the love of a mother for her bairns. Dedicated to all the mothers and fathers in the world, it will do its share toward making the world a better place in which to live.
